

Plot

Discussion

Prompts

Imagine you're the author. How would you change the story's ending or a specific event to make it more interesting for you?

If you could rewrite
one chapter from a different character's
perspective, whose perspective would you choose, and why?

Describe a part from the book that you found boring or confusing. How would you rewrite it to make it more engaging?

What would be a more exciting or surprising plot twist that could happen in the story?

What were the major turning points in the plot, and how did they affect your reading experience?

What do you think is the most important event in the story, and why?

If you could insert
a new subplot
into the book,
what would it be,
and how would it
affect the main storyline?

If you could rewrite
the book's ending,
what changes
would you make to create a more thrilling or satisfying
conclusion?

Were there any plot twists that caught you off
guard or that you saw
coming?

Are there any unresolved
issues that's bothering
you?

Identify the central conflict in the book. How does this conflict evolve or intensify as the story progresses?

How did the book make you feel while reading it? Did it elicit any strong emotions?

Did your opinion of the book change
as you
progressed
through it?

A dark olive green card with a white border and a white question. The card has rounded corners and a white line that forms a frame around the text. There are two white circles on the left and right sides of the frame, one near the top and one near the bottom.

Would you recommend this book to others? Why or why not?

What real-world issue or topic do you think the book addresses, even if indirectly?

How does it relate to our lives today?